

Duo Seat

Muller Van Severen

Product Type

Lounge Chair

This object juxtaposes two seats made of lacquered steel and textile. The rectangular shape of the object contrasts with the arc-shaped cloths. The back rail of one seating becomes the arm of the second one. It is made with round steel bars instead of square-shaped or L-shaped profiles like the series before. The reason for this is the focus on seating. Muller Van Severen wants to put forth the simplest way of designing a seat; by hanging a piece of cloth between two bars. Duo seat urges people to sit really close without actually seeing each other.
