

Bru
Tacchini

Product Type Low Table

Art is a spontaneous expression, which dissolves the constraints of traditional culture. The material as a raw element, worked and shaped to highlight its expressive power. Brut is a table with strong references to Art Brut, spontaneous and informal, and brutalist architecture both in the volumes, accentuated and massive, and in the materials, concrete and only partially controllable.

Tacchini's first project with the designer Roberto Sironi, this table with a cast aluminium top and concrete legs presents itself as a procedural object, where the material takes over and dominates the forms to give life to a piece with a proud and charismatic personality.
